Commas and Conjunctions ☺

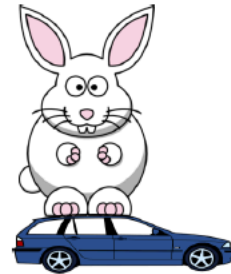

A comma is used just before a little conjunction (and, but, for, nor, or, so, yet) to separate two different clauses or parts of a sentence.

Examples: The worm looked yummy, so I ate it.

I knew $20 was too much for a gumball, but I really wanted it.

A. Put commas in the proper places in these sentences. Underline the conjunctions.

1. I knew the computer mouse was not real but I tried to give it some cheese anyway.
2. The giant bunny rabbit crushed the car so the people could not escape.
3. I do not eat worms nor do I eat baby elephants.
4. Caleb would never eat glue or would he?
5. Kim wanted to brush her teeth but she forgot how.
6. I thought it was a cup of apple juice but I was wrong.
7. The chair was made from marshmallows yet it did not taste good.
8. I could not find my jeans so I wore my swimsuit to school instead.
9. Emily found the wad of gum on the sidewalk yet she chewed it anyway.
10. I finished this worksheet but I wrote my answers in invisible ink.

B. Now make up a sentence of your own with a comma and a conjunction.
